A PRESIDENTIAL APPEAL. The appeal of President Taft for an endowment fund of two millions that the Red Cross society of America may take its proper place in this great international institution ought to bring out a generous and satisfachave not set a cornersione under the American Red Cross yet, but it is likely now to be done. Japan leads all other countries in the magnitude of its permanent fund, and Germany comes next, while our Red Cross status does not compare with our rank The American people have always in emergencies stood first for liberality, but it is natural that the society is natural that the society should have ready funds to meet any public calamity instantly, as do sev eral of the other nations. The president is proud also to be first officer of this society, and it is a good time to put this humane organization on its feet for permanency and des-

What is needed is a live interest in the subject by the people and an ac tivity on their part which indicates that it is regarded as a necessity and cannot be opposed by New England's representatives with impunity.

FURTHER INVESTIGATION.

We learn from Washington that there are whispers about the capital of a congressional investigation of the navy department which will cast no tion upon Secretary George Von a buzz saw. L. Meyer's new reorganization plant, although the direct outcome of it. A Very broadly speaking, the plan is 'making good,' and there is some thought in congress of looking into the affairs of the navy to see whether or not the Meyer plan, if it works well, should not be embalmed in law One of the weaknesses of any roor ganization made by secretarial order is that it is subject to complete metamorphosis by the next secretary that comes along; and some of the mem-bers hope that a definite scheme of administration can be tried out and agreed upon and then placed by conwhere it cannot be killed.

"With the certain prospect that the construction corps will fight to retain their power in the department, the likelihood of an investigation is in creased. In a sense, the navy department is under investigation all the time by congress, through its commit tees on naval affairs, but the present issue is fundamental rather than ineldental, and congress may want to study the department from every point once. If Secretary Meyer can give the first woman in the air, though, his reforms statutory standing during his term, he will have made a remarkable record in the department, industry and thoroughness with which he went at business problems while postmaster general has given him a reputation which tends toward confidence in his judgment."

WHERE TAXATION BEARS HEAV-IEST.

Robert D. Evans of Beverly, Mass was taxed on $100,000 of personal property up to the time of his death, but when the inventory of his estate was filed in the office of the state tax commissioner of Massachusetts it showed that he was possessed of property totalling $10,404,826, or, as the Boston Transcript remarks, more than 100 times the amount which had been subjected to taxation, which was one cent, upon his revealed fortune The Transcript then proceeds to show that the heaviest tax falls upon those possessed of the least property. It

"A man worth ten million dollars commonly pays on one per cent. of personal holdings; if worth one milion he would perhaps pay en five per cent.; the average man worth one hundred thousand is probably paying on ten per cent.; while if his persons possessions should drop to ten thousand he would doubtless find himsel paying on them all. He could not afford to remove to New Hampshire or Rhode Island or to seek a 'tax-dodging town' here, nor would the local asses-sors hesitate to risk driving him out of town by a full assessment, as would be the case were he worth a million or two. The commission which is studying the amendment to the constitution designed to give the legislature power to classify property for taxation has in such cases as this ansple evidence that our taxation laws need correction.

"It is also clear that the tendency of or statutes, unless arrested by some definite reform, is toward a fuller colection of taxes on personal property.

ORGANIZED AUTO DRIVERS.

The fact that the auto drivers are organizing in different parts of the community shows that they represent a permanently established craft which can make better conditions and terms for themselves by uniting, and also afford better service to auto-owner and more pretection to the general public. The Lowell (Mass.) Courier-Citizen, commenting upon the meaning of organization, pays: Thousands of young men have entered the business, and their average intelligence and self-respect is high. By means of organization it should usily be possible to drive out all the eckless and irresponsible youths who have gained an entrance into it, and maintain the standard on a steady plane. There will ultimately be more ing than there have been horses, and thousands of busy men will be forced machines for their wives and daugh-ters. There will be steady employendowment of responsibility and reliafor all others. There are few things worth doing in this life that are not worth doing well, and running a railroad locomotive or high-power touring car calls for experts, rather than men who hope to get by without being discovered. Here is wishing the new organization success."

The truth of the above is self-evident and it should prompt all concerned to greet this action on the part of the chauffeurs as the dawn of a less hazardous era.
